

RETAIL MERCHANTS HEAR CODES DISCUSSED AND STEPS TAKEN BY ASSOCIATION

Past President Gillender Appeals for United Membership of all Retailers to Ensure Better Service to Themselves and Public.

Retailers from Pincher Creek to Coleman met in the Community Hall on Monday evening, with Mayor Pattinson, of Coleman, as chairman. Mr. Gillender told of the meetings of the Association's board with Premier Albert and members of the government, and of the passing in the Legislature in 1934 of the Trades and Industry Act.

It was important that if improvement was to be made in presenting their claims, greater representation in the membership of the Association was absolutely essential. Of 124 retailers between here and Pincher, only 21 were paid-up members of the Retail Merchants Association. In order to secure better membership, the annual fee had been reduced to $3.00 for the smaller stores up to $8.00 for the larger stores.

In the matter of regulation of prices, erroneous impressions had gone abroad that it was likely prices would be increased to the consumer as a result of the government's talk of price regulation. It was intended to see there was a minimum and a maximum price, based on costs, and to avoid the price-cutting and loss leader competition so prevalent among chains and retailers.

Mr. Gillender told of Secretary's work on behalf of the retailers, and during his twelve years experience as a board member, he had always found Mr. McKay devoted to the interests of the retailers of the province.

"What shall I do?" wailed the sweet young thing. "I'm engaged to a man who just cannot bear children."

"Well," remarked the kindly old lady, "you mustn't expect too much of a husband."

PINCHER CREEK CELEBRATING DOMINION DAY

Pincher Creek citizens committee extends a hearty invitation to Coleman people to spend July 1st there, when sports, races, baseball and softball tournaments will be played. Pincher now has its own band, and it will have a grand parade at 10 a.m. in which will be included Indians, decorated automobiles and bicycles. Pincher, the oldest town in southwestern Alberta, home of many pioneers and hospitable people, will extend a cordial welcome to visitors.

COLEMAN SHOWED BEST SALES IN WESTON'S BISCUIT CAMPAIGN

Mr. Johnston, in charge of the sales promotion plan of Weston's biscuits, informed The Journal that Coleman sales were the largest in the Pass towns. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion earned a nice sum in commission as sponsors of the sales in the various stores, and were well pleased with the result. The stores selling the biscuits and the company used liberal display advertising in The Journal and The Shopper, bringing a good response.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients in hospital at the week-end included J. Poston, with injured foot; Robert Lowe with crushed fingers sustained in a mine accident; Mr. Hopkins, sr., who underwent another operation and is reported doing fine; Joe Filafilo, recovering from an appendix operation.

Harry Harris, the orderly and faithful employee for several years, has to his credit the beautifying of the grounds surrounding the hospital, by planting evergreen trees and laying stone borders gleaming with a coat of whitewash. The work adds to the appearance of the place.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BOARD FUNDS SUFFER

Cutting interest rates on Alberta securities will reduce the income of the Workmen's Compensation Board by approximately one half, according to figures computed by J. R. Smith, of West Canadian Collieries. The present interest received on monies invested based on the price at which they were bought, is $174,216.58. Such a serious cut is viewed with considerable alarm by the coal companies and the workmen who contribute to the fund. A false impression has been created by some legislative members, including E. O. Duke, that the government pays money into the Compensation fund. This is entirely erroneous, for it comes solely from assessment against the coal industry, operators and workmen, and a percentage of coal sales.

Hospital Board for International, elected by acclamation: H. Chamberlain, J. Glendenning, J. Hadley.

Auditors, D. Holley, W. Williams.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Frank H. Graham is at present visiting some of the family circle in the city of Edmonton, taking some relaxation for his busy life in Coleman.

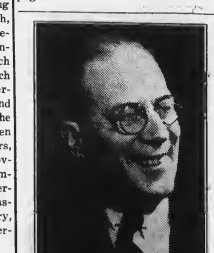

Mrs. Andrew Dow returned on Monday afternoon from six weeks visit at Vancouver, Seattle and other Pacific coast places. Despite plenty of rain while there, Mrs. Dow states she had a very enjoyable holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Edwards, of Pincher Creek, were visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Halliwell's on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Edwards, who is publisher of the Pincher Creek Echo, intends going over to France with the Vimy pilgrimage.

Jack Wilson, weighman at the International mine, is planning on spending three months in England, and will attend the Vimy memorial unveiling in July. Several from Blairmore and Fernie are going over for the big event.

A world's record is recorded in the birth of 13 mink pups at the ranch of Fred Hanson, near Port Haney, B.C. The Vancouver Sun carried a front page story on the event, with photographs of the rancher and the pups. Eric Bergquist, rock driller for McGillivray Co., was almost as proud of the event as if he had been the owner of the ranch, for Hanson is a neighbor of his, Bergquist owning a ranch very close to Hanson's.

Mr. Brown, father of George A. Brown, who with his wife is visiting here for a few weeks, gained local notoriety because he walked from Hillcrest to Coleman. Evidently people are so unaccustomed to walking in these parts, that Mr. Brown's jaunt attracts more than passing notice, while he didn't give it a second thought. Maybe he'll climb Crow's Nest Mountain and get onto the front page.

DONALD HEINS

One of Canada's outstanding musicians, who will conduct the Toronto Conservatory of Music mid-summer examinations in Blairmore on June 20th. Mr. Heins organized and conducted the Ottawa Symphony Orchestra before joining the faculty of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. At present he is assistant conductor to Sir Ernest MacMillan in the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and is well known to radio audiences as a program director for the Canadian Radio Commission.

JUNIOR FOOTBALLERS SHUT-OUT MICHEL

Shows Classy Form and Have Good Defence Players

Playing the second of a two-game home and home series with Michel juniors, Coleman juniors again shut-out their opponents 3-0, after taking the first game at Michel 1-0. Coleman, a smart aggregation of youngsters in neat snappy uniforms, proved themselves to be the better opportunists around the net, two of their three goals being the result of smart combination plays, the third by Walker being a brilliant individual effort. Michel proved themselves no quitters and fought back every minute of the game, lack of finish around goal being their downfall.

Coleman opened the scoring in 25 minutes when L. Smith centred to Fisher who passed to Walker, who scored. Michel came close on one occasion when Thomson kicked the ball into the mouth of the goal, only to have Krall push it through with his hand.

The second half was barely underway when Smith passed out to Fisher, who gave Kraus no chance to save, for Coleman's second goal. Both teams played hard to increase their goal averages, but a stubborn defence balked them at every turn. With 15 minutes left to play Walker scored Coleman's third goal to give the locals a well earned victory.

This is the third year Coleman juniors have played together with few replacements on the team. They have a strong defence who kick cleanly, coupled with a smart half-back line who feed their forwards with short snappy passes, the latter line making the most of their chances with the result that they are as yet undefeated this year.

Coleman Teams Win and Lose—Sport Activities Create Interest

Coleman Soccer Team Ties With Fernie 4-4

The local senior football team earned its first point in three games when they held the Fernie club to a 4-4 draw at Fernie on Sunday.

Facing a 3-0 defeat at one stage of the game, Coleman fought back courageously to come within range of their opponents by scoring three goals against one scored by Fernie. With the score 4-3 and three minutes to go in the second half Coleman finally equalized to win their first league point.

Coleman: Zenzula; Moores, Emmerson; Houghton, Jackson, Beddington; L. Smith, Philips, Walker, Fisher, D. Smith.

Referee: R. Jackson.

Coleman Co-Eds softball team defeated Blairmore by a score of 4-1, at least that was the score when they stopped counting runs. If you don't believe it, ask Jean McLeod.

Fernie Defeat Coleman Baseballers 8-3

Fernie baseball team proved themselves too good for Coleman on Sunday afternoon when they took the long end of an 8-3 score in a benefit game for Harold Kane who, was injured in a recent game.

Coleman took a 2-0 lead in the first two innings, Fernie finally getting to Yagos for one run in the third. Gate took over the pitching duties in the fourth inning when Yagos developed a sore arm and held the opposition scoreless till the sixth inning when Fernie equalized. Bossio continued to hold the locals to two runs and was given the lead in the seventh when Peters hit a homer. In the eighth inning Fernie went on a batting spree to score four runs before Gate finally retired the side. Both teams scored in the ninth to finish 8-3.

Owing to the rocky condition of the field many hits were scored when the ball would take a bad bounce on hitting the ground, completely fooling the fielder, these hits on occasions resulting in runs.

Batteries: Yagos, Gate, Field; Bossio, Timchuk.

THERE'S NO KILLING SOME PEOPLE

There's no killing some people—or so it seems. A terrific storm hit the vicinity of Dundak, Ontario, one day recently. Jagged streaks of yellow death slilt the blackened skies. One of them became playful with Harvey Pedlar, who held a pitiful of milk. It jerked the pail from him leaving him holding the bale. Some will say that he leads a charmed life. And yet, a hundred years from now—How often have we said of someone who has died, "If he had only had the treatment of a specialist." ## The Need For Security

With the international situation, not only in Europe but also in the Orient becoming daily more fraught with peril, the necessity for a rejuvenated and strengthened League of Nations becomes apparent, if world peace is to be preserved.

First hint of the likelihood of an eventuality, which must have been obvious for some time to student-observers of international trends came in dispatches received in the daily press of the country when the Italian Mussolini was reported to be paving the way for a rapprochement between Italy, Germany and Austria by attempting to effect a reconciliation of differences between the last two mentioned countries.

When one considers the situation in which these three countries find themselves an alliance in a common cause appears a natural probability. All three sustained serious losses during the Great War and its aftermath. All three are in urgent need of extension of territory to provide an outlet for a large number of unemployed or partially submerged population, or as a source of raw materials or for the promotion of trade or for all three. All three are in the same political as well as the same economic boat for they are fascist, dictator-ruled. The people of all three countries are intensely ambitious to regain what they have lost and this is probably the principal reason why they are content with the form of government they have.

It is true that the Italian aggression in Ethiopia appears, on the face of it, to have resulted in triumph achievement for the Italian forces, but it is doubtful whether, in the long run, acquisition of Abyssinia, even if subsequent events do not result in some modification of the fruits of victory at the instance of the League, will prove of great economic benefit to Rome. In any event, it can surely be taken for granted that Mussolini and the Italian people, in their present frame of mind, will not be satisfied to call it a day and sheathe the sword.

With this Italian viewpoint prevailing and Germany and France eying one another with distrust and apprehension, an alliance between Germany and Italy, fortified by Austria, could not be calculated to render the European situation more secure. Both Italy and Germany are not only well armed and equipped but are perfecting their war machines to the nth degree of perfection, including the training of children of tender years.

The situation is an exceedingly difficult one for Great Britain whose people do not wish to be dragged into another conflagration. On the contrary the inhabitants of the "tight little isle" are bending their energies towards recovery of economic conditions and statistics prove that they are well on the road towards this objective.

While the British government is keenly alive to the dangers of the international situation, fortunately her statesmen are not disposed to be stampeded into any precipitate measures and quite evidently the people of the country are well satisfied with Anthony Eden's recent assurance that in the council of the League of Nations the country is prepared to "play its part."

Expressing satisfaction with this viewpoint the London Times in a recent editorial said:

"If the League, even the incomplete League, had disposed of the will, as it certainly disposes of the means, to bring aggression to a standstill by economic non-co-operation, nothing would have been heard of the contention that the refusal of aid to the aggressor means war; peace would have made successful trial of its resources, and generally we should be looking on a very different picture today.

"Yet, even if the League had succeeded, as it clearly could have succeeded, in the policy of passive resistance, it would still have been necessary to write another chapter in the development and to increase its powers by completing its membership and making its functions correspond with its capacity. The obstacle to be overcome is the 'spirit of mutual distrust between France and Germany.'

"The outlook would be gloomy indeed if no effort were being, or could be, made to attack this mistrust at its roots, and no responsibility could be more willingly and gladly borne by British statesmanship than that of seeking the means to end an antagonism which survives to the common danger."

The Times goes on to say that this endeavor was moved into the stage of "serious practical discussions when the questions addressed to the German government on the subject of Herr Hitler's proposals for a lasting European settlement were published in a British White Paper" and suggests that conversations be pursued in a manner that will permit of "fewer opportunities for any possible misunderstanding of tone and intention on either side."

Bears Attack Aeroplane

Ripped Off Door While Machine Was Parked Overnight

Unreported for two months, J. C. F. Dalziel, "mystery" flying trapper of the north, has flown to Fort Simpson, N.W.T., from his remote trapline with his aeroplane patched up where two grizzly bears ripped off the door and damaged fabric around it.

Dalziel, who went out to Edmonton last year, learned to fly and came back with an aeroplane, said the bears went after the machine while it was "parked" overnight in snow. The bears were after a bundle of beaver skins in the craft.

The flyer trapper brought a good catch of fur when he arrived at Fort Simpson, and said his winter trapping operations were successful.

A Grim Story

One Person Killed Every Six Minutes In U.S. Last Year

Coming, appropriately enough, from Chicago, there was a grim tale in last week's papers. It told that in the United States last year they killed one person every six minutes. The National Safety Council figured it out this way:

99,000 killed; 365,000 permanently injured; 9,100,000 temporarily disabled; 271 killed every day, 11 every hour, one every six minutes; 25,000 injured every day, 1,000 every hour, 16 every minute; 1,000 permanently injured every day, 41 every hour. Total financial damage $30,000,000 in property loss, wage loss, medical expense.

What puzzles us is how the life and accident insurance companies stand it. As for war, well it just doesn't compare with this day-to-day United States slaughter.

Nor should the rest of us feel complacent, nor superior. We too rush about like mad, killing and maiming one another needlessly, making life a sort of shamless—Ottawa Journal.

Recruiting Officer—So you want to enlist, do you? Are you sure? [Candidate]—Yes, sir. I belong to the fighting MacGuire's and we never miss a scrimmage. I want to enlist for the duration of the war—or longer if it keeps up that long.

Russian Armaments

Soviet Government Plans To Expend Huge Sum This Year

When the Japanese war office starts to draw attention to the weight of Russian armaments, there is some reason to suggest that the pot is calling the kettle black. Japan devoted 47 per cent of her whole budgetary expenditure last year to defence, and this year proposes to spend 50 per cent. Even so her military budgets, and those of all other countries, pale into insignificance by comparison with Russia's. Marshal Tukachevski, deputy-commissioner of defence, recently announced that in 1936 the Soviet would expend 14,800,000,000 roubles on her military forces. At the official rate of exchange this sum represents £2,600,000,000 sterling. Britain has for months been debating whether she should spend half the latter sum, spread over a period of years, on modernizing her sea, land and air forces. From all this it is clear enough that, whether the Japanese war office wishes to put the nation on guard or merely to raise a bogey, it has substantial material to exploit.—Auckland News.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, weak and the world looks grim.

A mere bowel movement doesn't "always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harms and irritates. They make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a cathartic but have no cathartic effect on them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Satisfactorily return exchange also. See.

A Serious Problem

Restoration Of Confidence In The Country's Wheat Is Needed

Canada's most serious problem in the opinion of Dr. W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, is a restoration of confidence in the country's wheat.

This is particularly so after the "alarmist" publicity given to the product because of a temporary crop surplus, said Dr. Swanson. The surplus, he held, was only temporary although it has aroused wholly unfounded fears of overproduction.

"There has never been any world overproduction of wheat nor any chance of world overproduction," he said in an interview in Montreal. "There was a temporary condition of surplus produced by unusual crop conditions in 1928, which was exaggerated by the crash of speculative markets. It has been impossible for this country to sell its wheat freely at fair prices until this alarm dies down."

Adopt New Method

Nicola Valley Leads The World In Fighting Hoppers

The Nicola valley in mid-south-western British Columbia leads the world in fighting grasshoppers—the dreaded locust menace of ancient days.

According to word received by the provincial department of agriculture, the method used there of systematically poisoning the egg beds of the grasshoppers, has been approved by a world conference of entomologists at Cairo, Egypt, as being the most effective. Nicola is the only place where this has been done over a period of years.

Women Police Make Good

Number Attached To Scotland Yard Will Be Increased

The few women who have been attached to the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard have justified their appointment so well that their number is soon to be considerably increased.

At present there are three women detectives in the west end divisions of the Metropolitan police force, and it is suggested there should be at least one woman detective in each division.

Originated With Latin Poet

The expression "Rome was not built in a day" is believed to have originated with the poet Claudius Claudianus, one of the last of the Latin poets (about 400 A.D.). Claudianus wrote: "What Roman power slowly built, an unnamed traitor instantly overthrew." The proverb gradually became modified until it survives in its present form.

Peru reports that business there has been improving since early 1933.

Worth Fabulous Sum

Chicago Jeweller Not Disclosing Price Paid For Gemmed Crown

In a gilded hotel suite in New York, Warren Piper, a Chicago jeweller, displayed a great glittering diadem which he described as the storied and all-but-priceless crown of Our Lady of the Andes.

A group of visitors stood pop-eyed before the magnificence of the crown, which Piper, head of the American syndicate which just has come into possession of the object, had placed in a dull wooden case, flooded by indirect lights.

The gold of the diadem gleamed dully against the green radiance shooting from the stones, which Piper said were emeralds, encrusting and hanging pendant from the crown.

Piper declined specifically to estimate its value, saying the emeralds it contained were not all priceless, but he mentioned $4,500,000 as an approximate figure.

White-faced with apparent excitement, he said he could give no exact information as yet to just what will be done with the crown. He added, however, it might first be placed on exhibition and later broken up for sale to private individuals.

There is substantially the story of the diadem as related by Piper. It was completed in 1599 and taken from the Incas by Pizarro's Conquistadores in the conquest of Peru four centuries ago. Negotiations for sale of the diadem, described as the most valuable ever owned by the Catholic Church, were begun in 1914, proceeds to go to charity.

Piper and his associates more than a year ago began active negotiations. Meanwhile, the crown had been under safekeeping in New York.

Piper would not disclose the price paid. He said merely that money sent to several South Americans claiming a part ownership, as well as to the church.

Has Peculiar Style

England's Walking Champion May Be Barred From Olympics

A man with an Olympic worry is V. W. G. Stone, English walking champion—and for good reason.

Stone is a blue streak on the cinders, so much faster than his British rivals that they scarcely can keep him in sight, yet the Olympic officials have notified him he won't be among those present at Berlin this summer unless he alters his walking style. "And why not?" asks Stone, justifiably, having just won the British seven-mile championship. "Because," comes the rejoinder, "we're not so sure that you're really walking. Maybe you're running."

And that's how matters stand. A potential Olympic champion (they claim his time is well under the Olympic record) might have to stay at home because his country's officials don't wish to take any chances.

Moving pictures, it is pointed out by Stone's supporters, reveal nothing amiss with his walking. He retains, it seems, unbroken contact with the ground, which is the vital difference between walking and running. Yet he has such a peculiar, unorthodox lope, and is so much speedier than any rival, because that officials simply won't believe it.

Depends On The Country

Whether Gold Shipments Have To Be Heavily Guarded

A traveler recently returned from foreign parts tells me a story about gold. It seems that the ship on which this traveler returned loaded a large consignment of gold at Havre. The stuff was loaded much like any other cargo, only it was lowered into a special hold. And what struck my informant about the operation was the fact that while the loading was in progress not a single uniformed militiaman of the French law was in sight on the dock or on the ship.

There were numerous representatives of the banks making the shipment and numerous French longshoremen in blue blouses gesticulating and calling to each other in the high-pitched nasal tones which foreigners who try to learn French are never able to reproduce. The banks' agents simply checked the gold aboard and the ship's officers checked with them. Then the hatches were closed, and that was that.

But when the ship got to New York passengers were astonished to see what looked like a whole platoon of police rush on the gangplank the moment the ship docked.

The voyager from whom I had the story says he thought perhaps the ship was bringing back some date of the serious criminal incognito, but when he inquired he found that the police had come aboard only to stand guard while the gold was being unloaded.—Baltimore Sun.

Letter Will Be Treasured

Has Been Twice Around World And Was Sunk In Air Liner

Rare letter was found among the letters recovered from the sunken air liner, City of Hartford, which crashed into the sea off Alexandria, killing 12 people. It had been twice around the world. The letter, was sent to Mr. E. W. C. Hughes, of Bowaters (of Australia), Ltd. It was posted in London to reach Mr. Hughes when he arrived in Montreal. He had already left Montreal when it arrived. The letter was then forwarded to him in New York. It missed him there too. From New York it was sent to a wrong address to Sydney, and redirected to the sender in London. It set out again on its travels in the City of Hartford and went to the bottom of the sea with the rest of the mail. And now at last the letter has reached Mr. Hughes, who says he will treasure it as a memento of a very tragic occurrence. Although it is tainted and stained with salt water, the contents are easily legible.

Rather Snappy Problem

Deciding Whether Rubber Bands Were Classed As Stationery

Rubber bands vexed the Dominion railway board when it tried to decide whether they were stationery and hence entitled to lower freight rates.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, chairman, said they were used in stores instead of string and string is not stationery. They are nearly all sold by stationers so must be stationery. D. H. Guthrie, president of the Stationers' Guild of Canada, George Ranson, chairman of the Canadian Freight Association, declared "drug stores sell sandwiches, but that doesn't make sandwiches drugs."

Elastic bands have an elastic price, Mr. Ranson said. In Toronto they are $150 a unit, in Montreal $120, in Regina $175.

Lived Centuries Ago

Gold-Encased Body Of Old Chief Priest Found

Discovery of a gold-encased body, believed to be that of Ka Nihit, chief priest in the fifth Egyptian dynasty, was announced by Selim Hassan Bey, professor of Egyptology at the University of Cairo. The professor found a body wrapped in gold leaf and wearing a thin gold crown. A head necklace also was found as well as a gold-encased cane. Ka Nihit was Director of Granaries, chief scribe and chief priest to the Pharaoh Sahure. Sahure lived about 3200 years B.C.

Only Too Clear

A motorist was giving a woman lessons in driving.

"The hand lever," he said, "brakes the rear wheels only, and the foot pedal brakes all four. Is that clear?" "Yes," replied the woman, doubtfully, "but I'd rather not have any of them broken."

South China To Take Stronger Attitude Towards Japanese

Shanghai.—The Canton (South China) government telegraphed the national government at Nanking an appeal urging the nation as a whole take a stronger attitude toward Japanese activities in China.

This message, sent by Chen Chitang, governor of Canton and military leader of Kwangtung province, said, however, the Cantonese forces were withdrawing from Hunan province "for the present."

(Hunan, attached to the Nanking government, borders upon Kwangtung province of the Canton regime.)

National government leaders interpreted the development as a strong indication Kwangtung province is unwilling to continue its threat against Hunan province, which Nanking is answering with ever-increasing military concentrations in Fukien, Kiangsi and Hunan provinces.

The national government believes Canton's latest action left Kwangtung province alone to prosecute any anti-Nanking campaign. War lords of Kwangsi are believed to realize they are incapable of waging war alone.

Canton's proposal that Nanking undertake a stronger Japanese policy is expected to be considered at an emergency session of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang (dominant government party) at Nanking July 10.

Counterfeiter At Work

Bank Of Canada Notes Are Raised By Skillful Art Work

Ottawa.—The Bank of Canada disclosed search was being made for a man who had raised three or four of the bank's bills by skillful art work, faking a $2 bill into a $20 on one occasion.

Governor Graham Towers said he believed there were not more than four of the bills in circulation and that they had been traced in Ontario and Manitoba.

One of the notes, recovered by police, was of $2 denomination in the French issue. The numerals $2 were changed to $20 and the word, "Deux Dollars" were darkened so as to be almost imperceptible in the latter work.

The same words on the lower border of the front of the note were faked out and "twenty dollars" substituted.

Pilot Train Blown Up

Jerusalem.—A pilot train running ahead of a troop train which carried a detachment of British military engineers was blown up just before it reached here. No one was reported killed or injured. Every telephone and telegraph wire leading into Jerusalem was cut.

Every farmer in Russia between 18 and 45 has been ordered to work six days a year on road construction without pay.

Royal Commission May Investigate Wheat Marketing

Ottawa.—A royal commission will investigate wheat marketing if the recommendation submitted to the house by the special committee on the subject is accepted by the government. Trade Minister Euler was chairman of the committee and two other ministers, Hon. James Gardiner and Hon. T. A. Crerar, served on it, so there is little doubt its unanimous recommendations will be carried out.

The report was unanimous and found the course taken by the new wheat board under the chairmanship of James R. Murray was consistent with the policy of the government to reduce the wheat surplus to reasonable proportions.

A commission of three will probably be appointed and one of its duties will be to study marketing conditions in the United Kingdom and other importing countries in Europe. The committee spent many days hearing the evidence of James R. Murray, chairman of the Canadian wheat board, and members of the Winnipeg grain exchange, so the commission will have a great amount of data on the Canadian end of the marketing.

Arctic Expedition

Party Of University Graduates Sail Northward From Churchill

Churchill, Man.—After several previous unsuccessful attempts, the British Canadian Arctic expedition, 1936-1939, sailed northward recently in the whaleboat Polecat, towing a large canoe for use in case of emergency.

No ice was in sight in Hudson Bay as the expedition, in charge of Thomas H. Manning, set out but they expected to encounter some before they reach Rankin Inlet, their first stop. Other members of the party, all Cambridge University graduates, are Patrick Baird, Dr. Richard Keeling, Reynold Bray and Graham Rowley.

Under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society, the expedition will spend the first winter at Repulse Bay, 550 miles north of here. The following winter will be spent in the neighborhood of the north magnetic pole and the third winter will be spent in northern parts of Baffin Island and Ellesmere Island.

Would Lift Sanctions

Neville Chamberlain Urges System Of Regional Security

London.—Lifting of sanctions from Italy and organization of a system of regional security pacts were urged by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Addressing the 1900 Club, the chancellor added that before these proposals can be "translated in action, we must take counsel with others, particularly those dominions whose partnership with us means so much for the influence of the British empire in the world."

Mr. Chamberlain alluded to the recent circular of Viscount Cecil to members of the League of Nations union urging pressure against the government to pursue sanctions and even intensify them with the object of still preserving the independence of Ethiopia.

That the chancellor declared, "is the very mid-summer of madness."

Canada Purchases Arms

Washington.—Canada bought United States-made arms and military materials to the amount of $57,203 during May, it was announced by Secretary of State Hull. Argentina headed all American nations with purchases of $589,321. China was the largest buyer of American arms, taking $1,390,102 worth.

Honors For Sir Edward Beatty

New York.—New York University conferred an honorary degree of doctor of laws on Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and chancellor of McGill University.

Parliament For Russia

Program For Building Up Of Soviet Democracy

Moscow.—An official program for the building of "Soviet democracy" which calls for a government through two parliament-like bodies to be known as supreme councils has been made public.

The presidium of the all-union central executive committee approved the text of a proposed new constitution for the U.S.S.R. and convoked a session of the All-Union Congress of Soviets for Nov. 25 to pass on the constitution.

Members of the two bodies will be elected for terms of four years and have the rights of initiating and promulgating legislation. The constitution grants equal voting rights to all citizens over 18 years old regardless of class or origin save those disfranchised by the courts. It establishes a system of direct and secret elections and extends citizenry rights to freedom of speech and press.

The parliament as a whole, or two chambers combined, is to be known as the supreme council of the U.S.S.R.

Just A Formal Motion

Finance Minister Asking Authority To Borrow Up To $750,000,000

Ottawa.—Authority for the necessary refunding and borrowing the government may normally expect in the next two or three years will be sought from parliament in a resolution appearing on votes and proceedings in the name of Finance Minister Dunning.

The motion is for authority to borrow up to a maximum of $750,000,000 to be used for redemption of outstanding loans, purchasing or withdrawing from circulation un-matured securities and for public works and general purposes. It is a formal motion adopted by parliament at necessary intervals so that ample authority may be ready at any time the need arises to negotiate loans.

Reduced Railway Fares

Special Holiday Rates Arranged For Dominion Day

Winnipeg.—Reduced fares between all points in Canada are announced by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways for Dominion Day, July 1, according to Joseph B. Parker, western secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association.

With the holiday falling on Wednesday, tickets are made good from Tuesday, June 30 to July 1. These can be obtained for the going journey from June 30 to 2 p.m. on July 1, and returning are good till midnight on Thursday, July 2.

As arranged also for the King's birthday, June 23, the Dominion Day fares include one-way coach class fare and one-third for the tourist sleeping car on payment for the accommodation, and one way first class fare and one-third for the trip good in sleeping and parlor cars on payment for this first class accommodation.

From the number of enquiries already received at headquarters of both railways, both King's birthday and Dominion Day holidays indicate a large passenger list.

PROMINENT WESTERN FAMILIES LINKED BY MARRIAGE

A scene outside the First Presbyterian Church, Regina, on the occasion of the marriage of Audrey Bell and Charles Edward Michener. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bell of Regina, and the late George Bell, well-known Western Canada newspaperman, and Mr. Michener is the son of Senator and Mrs. E. Michener, of Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Michener will reside in Sudbury, Ontario.

RETURNS TO CABINET

Sir Samuel Hoare, brilliant British parliamentarian, who was forced to resign from the Cabinet several months ago, has returned to the British Cabinet as First Lord of the Admiralty. This is a very important post, particularly in view of the present tense situation in Europe and Asia.

Scotland Yard Expert

Sir Patrick Quinn, Of Investigation Department Is Dead

New York.—A London despatch to the New York Times says Sir Patrick Quinn, 50, former superintendent of the special branch of the criminal investigation department Scotland Yard, is dead.

Because of this knowledge, he was invariably entrusted with the protection of Queen Victoria, Edward VII and George V, during their sojourns abroad and also was made responsible for the safety of all foreign rulers visiting England. Sir Patrick shunned publicity. When a few weeks after the outbreak of the war it became known that he had been able to round up nearly all the potential German spies in the United Kingdom, it was suggested that his success should be published, but he objected.

"For heaven's sake," he said, "let everybody think us stupid and inefficient! It is our greatest asset."

British Wheat Reserve

United Kingdom Has Three Months Supply In Case Of War

London.—The United Kingdom's present wheat supply would feed the country for about three months in the event of war cutting off further shipments, Sir Thomas Inskip informed the House of Commons.

The question was raised by W. S. Liddell, Conservative, who asked the defence co-ordination minister what measures were being taken to assure a reserve supply of grain in case of war.

"The question of a sufficient wheat reserve will be considered by the committee which is now engaged in examining the whole subject of food supplies in war time," Sir Thomas replied.

Ends First Round Trip

Southampton.—R.M.S. Queen Mary, completing her first round trip to North America, docked June 10 at 2:25 p.m. G.M.T. (7:25 a.m. M.S.T.)

The Queen Mary was delayed by fog on her first eastbound transatlantic trip, as she had been on the outward journey.

Early Election In Manitoba Is Called Political Manoeuvre

Winnipeg.—Leaders of the three leading groups which will oppose return of Premier John Bracken's Liberal-Progressive government in the Manitoba elections July 27, charged the calling of an early election was a political manoeuvre.

Ererrick F. Willis, new leader of the Manitoba Conservative party; S. J. Farmer, Independent-Labor leader, and H. Sanders, president of the Manitoba Social Credit League, were agreed the dissolution of the legislature and calling of a July election was a surprise move.

Nevertheless, Mr. Willis and Mr. Sanders declared their groups would be ready. The Social Credit president said his organization would contest every seat. Mr. Farmer declined to comment on his campaign plans.

In dissolving the legislature, Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper set nomination day July 17 and election day 10 days after except in the northern constituencies of The Pas and Rupert's Land, where voting will take place Aug. 21, it being an established custom to defer voting in these ridings until after the general election.

"As usual Mr. Bracken has not consulted the wishes of his followers or the convenience of the public and he hopes to get a snap decision in his favor by his sharp politics," said Mr. Willis, only this week elected Conservative leader.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Mr. Bracken has received word from Ottawa that the fixed price of wheat this fall will be comparatively low and, as a consequence, is hastening to the country before the rural sections have an opportunity of expressing their extreme resentment at the polls."

"We shall speed up our own arrangements and have a complete and adequate platform before the public before July 1. With sufficient time to place that platform before the electorate, I am confident we would sweep the province but even in the extremely short time available we shall still win out by a substantial majority."

Mr. Farmer charged "it is the sort of political trick of which Mr. Bracken is quite capable. There is no justification for an election at this time."

Mr. Sanders said: "Apparently he (Mr. Bracken) is trying to pull a fast one."

"We are always ready," he added. "We will have a complete quota of candidates in Winnipeg and one in every one of the 45 electoral divisions outside."

Mr. Sanders declared the Social Credit league would immediately start work arranging speaking programs and would bring some speakers from among Alberta's Social Credit ranks. He said he did not expect Alberta's premier, William Aberhart, would enter the campaign here.

Present standing of the 55-member legislature, elected June 16, 1932, is: Liberal-Progressive, 34; Conservatives, nine; Liberals, three; Labor, five; Farmer-Labor, one; vacant three, total, 55. Two of Winnipeg's 30 seats were made vacant by appointment of J. T. Haig, Conservative, to the senate and election of Ralph Maybank, Liberal, to the House of Commons. Civil constituency was made vacant by the death of E. S. Jonasson, a government member.

It will be the fourth election campaign for Premier Bracken, the agricultural college principal, who was called to head the government when the Progressive forces won their first election 14 years ago. The premier was at that time principal of the Manitoba Agricultural College.

Will Make An Exception

C.P.R. Steamship Company Not Taking Action Against Stowaway

Southampton.—The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company took the unusual course of asking leave to withdraw a charge of stowing away in Southampton police court against Henry James Bunker, 23-year-old Montreal window-dresser.

A. R. Lightfoot, on behalf of the Canadian Pacific, told the magistrate the company did not want to encourage stowaways, but in this case intended to make an exception.

Bunker apparently stowed away on the Pacific aboard the liner Empress of Australia with the idea of joining the Royal Air Force. During the voyage he impressed the ship's officers with his willingness to work hard and good behavior. He promised repayment for his passage.

Republican Candidate

Governor Landon Of Kansas Nominated For U.S. President

Cleveland.—In a tremendous demonstration of enthusiasm, and with only 18 votes in opposition, the Republican national convention nominated Governor Alf. M. Landon of Kansas for the United States presidency.

State after state cast their entire delegate votes for the so-called "Coolidge of the west" after a ruling it was necessary to call the roll. Shout shouts of "yes" greeted the rule, as the convention obviously wanted to make it by acclamation.

General Election In Quebec To Be Held On August 15th

Quebec.—The political sun has set on Louis Alexandre Taschereau. The suave, silver-haired French-Canadian lawyer who spent half his 70 years in public life, resigned from the premiership of Quebec—just a month after the Liberal party celebrated its 39th successive year in power.

On his recommendation, Hon. Adelard Godbout, former minister of agriculture, was sworn in as premier, shortly after the legislature was dissolved and the premier had announced a general election would be held Aug. 15.

It was a day of fast-moving events in the old capital. But the premier's resignation did not come as a surprise. For days it had been considered imminent. Numerous rumors failed only to specify the definite time. They said Premier Taschereau would end his political life and there would be a reshuffling of the cabinet.

Mr. Taschereau, meanwhile, issued a long statement explaining his reasons for resigning.

"I leave political life," he said, "without bitterness and without anger against anyone, wishing as I do to remember only the pleasures I have brought me, the friends I have made and the little good I have been able to accomplish."

Mr. Taschereau said he had planned to retire before the last general election, but he felt he would not be doing his duty if he abandoned his party "at a time when it was the object of the most violent attacks from our opponents."

Mr. Godbout was sworn in as premier by Dr. Alfred Morrisette, clerk of the executive council, in the presence of the lieutenant-governor and the former premier.

Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis, whose Conservative forces, allied with the ranks of Action Libérale Nationale, lent such a staggering blow to the Liberal regime in last November's general election, said he found the government's "manner of proceeding rather curious."

Not only had the legislature been dissolved, he said, but also the Taschereau regime. He voiced the intention of carrying on his work at the public accounts committee.

"We were just commencing the inquiry," he said, "and had only started to bring to light the scandal I have promised to prove. Now the government asks that the house be dissolved." The work would be continued by the next government, however, "and I can assure you," said Mr. Duplessis, "Retribution will be forced from those who have pocketed public funds and those guilty of criminal offences will be sent to jail."

PRACTICAL PARAGRAPHS

by John Edsion Price

CANADA - A GOOD PLACE TO STAY

Some people like other places better than they do Canada. But there must be a great many folks here like Stephen Leacock, McGill University's retired Professor of Political Economy. Having lived here sixty of his sixty-six years he recently publicly declined an invitation to return "home" to England. His reasons were set forth in an interesting article in "This Week" published by the New York Herald - Tribune.

In the article he recalls the early days with dinky engines spitting hemlock sparks and of a thirty-mile ride in a lumber wagon from the station. He likes the lack of "class" here. The fact that a fishing party made up of a taxi driver, a surgeon, and a man of means can be a very enjoyable one appeals to him. He likes living near the United States whose college and service clubs are like ours. He says that the Americans admire us for the fact that we actually hang our deserving criminals. He says: "The proposal is to dam up the Arkansas River and make it run backwards over the Rockies."

He speaks of Canada as a huge canvas on which mines and farms and towns have been filled in by the artist-inhabitants largely within his lifetime. He tells of the members of his family who got the call of the west in their blood. The still vast primeval wildernesses appeal to him. He even likes our great blizzards with the contrasting thrill of the sense of man-made safety, concluding: "We are sitting pretty here in Canada. East and West are the two oceans far away; we are backed up against the ice cap of the pole; our feet rest on the fender of the American border, warm with a hundred years of friendship. The noise and tumult of Europe we scarcely hear. Our lot lies elsewhere; shoveling up mountains, floating in the sky to look for gold, and finding still the Star of Empire in the West."

There must be a lot of folks who think that Canada is a good place to stay and would like to say so as well as Leacock, otherwise we would be facing a decreasing population rate.

IT TAKES GRIT TO DIG OUT THE GRIT THE SIXTH TIME

"If at first you don't succeed, fry, fry again," said the Boy Scout as he repeatedly broke the egg yolks unintentionally. Mr. Oberl Thorsness finally found good water on his farm near Saltcoats, Saskatchewan when he dug the sixth well. He claims to be the happiest man in the world. Besides getting the needed water he has the satisfaction of conquering the apparently unconquerable. A feeling for which man has dared the depths and the heights, famine and sword.

Michel baseball teams gave Coleman their second defeat in as many nights when they won a 5-3 decision in a scheduled Crow league game.

Coleman built up a 3-0 lead early in the game and continued to hold it till the fifth inning. Michel then started to hit Parks' offerings in the sixth and continued to do so till he was replaced by Field. Michel however failed to be repulsed and came out on the long end of a 5-3 score. Atkinson did the catching for the locals.

TRUE BENEVOLENCE

Too many of our generousities are selfish at bottom; we do good to those who can make return, and flatter ourselves that we are bountiful. ### DR. DONALD HEINS TO CONDUCT EXAMINATIONS

For 34 years one of the outstanding musicians and composers in Canada has been Donald Heins, who will conduct the mid-summer examinations of the Toronto Conservatory of Music in Blaimore on June 20th.

Mr. Heins comes of an English family, which has produced some noted musicians. His father, Nicholas Heins, organist, singer and composer, was for some years tenor soloist at Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, Windsor.

Mr. Heins was born in Hereford, England, and began his violin studies at the age of four. When only 14, he entered the Royal Conservatorium at Leipzig, where for five years he studied the violin under Haas Sitt and composition under Eustav Shreck. At the final examination he played a sonata of his own composition for violin and piano.

On his return to England, he continued his studies for four years in London under August Wilhem, during which time he was the concertmaster of an orchestra of 100 players, under Sir Hubert Parry, Sir Edward Elgar, Sir Charles Stanford and other noted conductors.

In 1902, Mr. Heins left England for Canada, and settled in Ottawa, where he remained for nearly 25 years. During that time he successfully established and conducted the Ottawa Symphony Orchestra, was honored with the appointment to instruct Princess Patricia in her musical studies and organized classes in violin for the public schools.

He left Ottawa in the spring of 1927 to join the faculty of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. As leading violinist and assistant conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Heins has become a popular figure in the public eye.

He has also contributed to music throughout Canada by his direction and arrangement of programs for the Canadian Radio Commission.

HAUPTMANN'S ASSETS

(New York World-Telegram)

There's something in a balanced ledger which inspires confidence, whether absolute conviction or not, and as a post-mortem on the Hauptmann case the audit just submitted by the Intelligence Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue has a very clinching effect.

Bruno Hauptmann, according to this statement, had assets of $4,941.40 on April 2, 1932, the day the $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh kidnapping was paid. From then until September 19, 1934, when Hauptmann was arrested, he is known to have earned $1,167.81, making $6,109.21 on the credit side.

But Hauptmann, when arrested, actually showed assets of $40,529.02, including both investments and the $14,600 of identified ransom bills hidden in his garage. He had suffered stock losses of $5,728.63. His living and personal expenses from April 2, 1932, until September 19, 1934, were $9,502. These items together make $56,059.55 passing through his hands in that period.

In short, the accounting shows $49,950.44 among his assets which has not yet been traced to any explained source. Hauptmann never made it clear. But the ransom money was $50,000. This seems a good time to say that we don't believe there was any miscarriage of justice in Hauptmann's execution.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The skull of the Marquis de Montcalm, governor of French Canada at the time of the British conquest, will be placed on exhibition in a Quebec museum.

The king has given his patronage to the British council, set up to promote closer cultural relations between the United Kingdom and foreign countries.

It was authoritatively stated Australia will accept the plans of the British government for a bi-weekly flying-boat service between Singapore and Port Darwin. It is planned to begin service August, 1937.

Unemployed in the United Kingdom declined by 126,188 in the period from April 27 to May 25, it was announced. Insured employees as of the latter date totalled 10,831,000, an increase of 120,000 over the month.

Frank Barnard and Fred Schumacher of Edmonton, both blind, have made a model of the liner Queen Mary. On a scale of one inch to 25 feet, the model is 41 inches long and complete in every detail.

Negotiations are afoot looking to a faster and better steamship service between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, told the House of Commons.

J. R. Burbridge, junior city clerk in Halifax, earned $920 last year and won a $90 increase. This put him over the $1,000-a-year class, where he was subject to a 10 per cent. cut. Now he draws $909 a year.

Plans for a flight across the South Atlantic in a free balloon were being made by Dr. Zinner, famous Hamburg pilot. The 3,700 miles between Casablanca, Morocco, and the mouth of the Amazon river can be covered in from five to eight days with prevailing winds, the balloonist said.

Manitoba is free from grasshoppers this year, for the first time in five years. H. E. Wood of the provincial department of agriculture stated recently. He said that $50,000 voted by the legislature for a poison-bait campaign will not be needed.

Preserving B.C. Landmark

Directional Finder Will Be Carefully Guarded In Future

A block of stone engraved with lead letters, left at Vancouver, B.C., in 1898 by the crew of H.M.S. Egretta to determine longitude and latitude, has been uncovered near the sunset gun in Stanley Park.

The stone, buried under moss and gravel, was formerly used to correct errors in ship's instruments but fell into disuse and was completely forgotten.

Inscribed on the stone is the exact longitude and latitude of its position with a note it was placed there by the Egretta, historic British survey ship.

The mark is badly worn by feet of careless visitors who were unaware a historic relic lay hidden beneath them. Steps are being taken to preserve the landmark. A protective barrier of chain and concrete will be erected around it or it will be raised on a stone pedestal surrounded by a small garden plot.

Marine Broadcasting Station

Latest Radio Equipment Integral Part Of Belfast Liner

According to the London Times, a new liner is now being built at Belfast which will have as an integral part of its equipment a complete broadcasting station. It will have not only an adequately powered transmitter of latest, most up-to-date design but specially constructed broadcasting studios and a special personnel for the purpose of planning and producing programs for the benefit of listeners ashore. The name of the ship is the Kanimbla.

When completed, it will sail from Belfast to its home port in Melbourne, Australia, where it will be put into active service between Adelaide, South Australia, and Cairns, North Queensland. The Kanimbla will be the first marine broadcasting station to be licensed by a government to transmit entertainment on regular schedules for listeners on land.

Many Memorial Plans

Late King George V. Will Be Immortalized All Over Empire

The late King George V. will be remembered through the ages. There have been 200 suggestions for memorials, aside from statues.

Among the leading suggestions for a "philanthropic" national memorial to the late king are:

Acquisition of land for a national park.

Homes for old people throughout the nation.

A medical research fund to include the provision of radium for cancer.

Hotels for young men and women seeking employment far from their homes.

(The money for the philanthropic memorial will be raised through public subscription.)

In addition, many towns and cities throughout Great Britain are selecting memorials.

It is proposed to have a stained glass window in Liverpool cathedral and a solid granite statue in Aberdeen.

A tablet will mark the spot where King George lay in state in Westminster Hall.

A plaque is being placed on the cottage in Wandsworth visited by the King on one of his jubilee tours. There will be a great statue of King George on a site in London near Parliament Square.

And throughout the empire there will be innumerable statues and memorials to the dead monarch.

In New Delhi, India, there will be a statue approved by the King himself during his lifetime, placed in the centre of Princess Park.

Charles Jagger, sculptor, died before he finished the carving of the figure, but it will be completed.

The Princes of India are providing this memorial as their contribution to the new winter capital of India where the foundation stone was laid by King George at the conclusion of his Coronation Durbar in 1911.

In Bombay there will be a memorial infirmary for incurables.

Britain Has Hard Problem

Diplomacy Will Be Needed To Settle Trouble In Palestine

The trouble the British Government has run into in Palestine arises in considerable part because its wartime predecessor made too many promises.

It gave pledges to the Jews, and it gave pledges to the Arabs. In practice, if not in theory, those pledges clash.

The result has been a condition of chronic unrest throughout the Holy Land which is getting no less as the years pass, and at the moment is taking the form of something much resembling incipient war.

The British are notable for their ability to smooth away troubles within their Empire and in their spheres of influence, but if they can settle this one satisfactorily, in a way that will produce harmony instead of continuing strife, they may justifiably set up as successors to Solomon the Wise—Detroit Free Press.

While trying to wring the neck of a chicken, a man in Tairua, New Zealand, let his fingers slip, and the sudden jerk broke his arm.

A Silken Thread

The Tie That Binds Together The Component Parts Of The British Empire

The recent proposal of a prominent American citizen that the interests of Canada and the United States would best be served were the two countries to join hands politically to form one great, powerful and resourceful country, appears to be meeting with little or no response on this side of the long, unguarded international boundary, and this fact will probably surprise many good Americans who consider themselves as our cousins in a broad sense.

Naturally there is a reason for Canadians being content to remain within the British Commonwealth of Nations, a reason one could hardly expect Americans to appreciate. The reason is that the tie that binds the Dominion of Canada to Great Britain is not an iron chain but a silken thread. At the outset of the development of Canada this country was governed by Great Britain, but as the country developed self-government developed until finally under the status of Westminster, Canada gained full nationhood as a member, with equal status, of the great British Commonwealth. The bond is aptly likened to a silken thread, but there is no disposition to break the slender tie—Swift Current Herald.

Montreal Doctor Hopes Eventually To Stamp Out Scarlet Fever

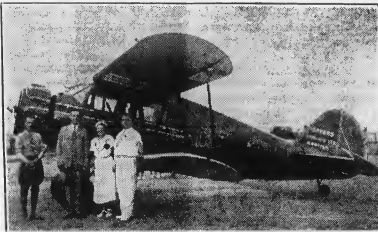

Scarlet fever, number one infectious disease, on the doctor's list, since diphtheria has been conquered, is now generally considered to be no more dangerous than chicken pox or measles, according to Dr. H. R. Cushing, Montreal, who presented a paper on the disease before the recent annual convention of the Ontario Medical Association.

Dr. Cushing warned that while scarlet fever is practically under control with the mortality rate down to one per cent, there is still danger of epidemics of great seriousness. "If there were no scarlet fever many infectious hospitals would be closed," said Dr. Cushing. The development of tests and anti-toxins by Dr. and Mrs. Dick have aided greatly to prevention, diagnosis and treatment, but there are not quite as satisfactory as similar methods used in diphtheria cases, he said.

Dr. Cushing was of the opinion the use of serum for scarlet fever is justified and was optimistic the disease would eventually be stamped out.

"Scarlet fever is practically certain to return in a very virulent form," said Dr. Cushing, "but it is comforting to know we can control the disease with serum."

MARCH OF PROGRESS

Year by year improvements succeed one another, on the prairies. The ox-cart gave way to the horse and buggy, and the horse and buggy gave way to the automobile, until now aeroplanes are gradually taking over many of the duties of the automobile. The latest step in the line of progress on the prairies is the coming of a powerful, high speed aeroplane ambulance to Regina to serve Saskatchewan, whose sponsors believe will save a great many lives. Preparations for the institution of this new service have been under way for a great many months. In the use of this aeroplane, the patient at a country point is placed on a stretcher, wrapped in blankets and is kept free from the danger of chills until admission to hospital.

TO RECALL THE PAST

Just before she started on her long journey to Vancouver to function in the Golden Jubilee ceremonies, Canadian Pacific locomotive No. 374, reconstructed in Weston shops, Winnipeg, was photographed with her modern counterpart, the steel encased 2711. Both under steam, both were pronounced 100 per cent. efficient, each in its own way. No. 374 is the exact replica of the old engine which hauled the first transcontinental train into Port Moody, B.C., then the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

With pageantry re-enacting the exact scene of fifty years ago, the coast terminus will hail the arrival of the old train's duplicate at 12 noon on Friday, July 3. Premier Pattullo and the mayors of Vancouver, Victoria, and Port Moody will give addresses of welcome to which a Queen Mary Pacific official representing Harry A. Abbott, who performed the original honors, will reply. At the throttle of the locomotive will be W. H. (Billy) Evans, of Vancouver, back at his place after fifty years. P. A. Barnhart, of Kamloops, will take up again his duties as conductor. He is the only other surviving member of the train crew of 1896.

Many Years At Sea

Sir Edgar Britten Started His Career In Sailing Ship

Sir Edgar Britten, tooling the Queen Mary out on the high seas, first went to sea in sailing ships 44 years ago. In his youth he jettisoned his middle name, Theophilus, and it seems a pity, for he resembles the Roman Emperor and it was an apt name. Theophilus was an iconoclast and humorist, and so is Sir Edgar.

He has ridden pretty nearly everything the Cunard line ever set afloat, and was commodore of the Cunard fleet and captain of the Berengaria, among many others. He was knighted in February, 1934, the third of the Cunard staff to be selected for this honor. The others were the late Sir James Charles and Sir Arthur Rostrom. The only White Star commodore who has been knighted is Sir Bertram Hayes.

Last fall, due to the consolidation of the Cunard and White Star lines, there was much uncertainty as to the command of the Queen Mary, with matters of seniority involved. Sir Edgar, ready to retire at 60, was persuaded to sign on for three years more.

"You must be a proud man," says the King to the captain.

"I am, sir," says the captain to the King.

He left grammar school to become a sailor on the Barque Jessie Osborn. He joined the Cunard service in 1901. In 1903, he was given a commission in the Royal Reserve. Multitudes of sea-going folk know him and esteem him highly. He has not only a trim ship and trim person, but a trim vocabulary. He is a great spinner of yarns and given to salty and witty discourse.

JESUS EXALTED

Golden text: Wherefore also God highly exalted him, and gave unto him the name which is above every name. Philippians 2:9.

Lesson: Luke 24.

Devotional Reading: Hebrews 2:8-9.

Explanations And Comments

Jesus Appears to the Eleven Disciples, Luke 24: 36-43. On the evening of the first Easter, while the two of whom Jesus had made himself known at Emmaus in the breaking of bread were telling the apostles in Jerusalem of their wonderful talk with the Risen Lord, he himself suddenly appeared in their midst and gave them the customary form of greeting, "Peace be unto you." The apostles were terrified, for they supposed they were beholding a spirit, "a form recognizable as that of Jesus, but of Jesus not risen but come from the world of the dead embodied or only with an apparent body."

"Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do questionings arise in your heart?" he asked, and then to reassure them, to convince them that he was living and was not a disembodied spirit, he bade them see and touch his hands and his feet. "A spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye behold me having," he told them. "The resurrection body could evidently offer resistance to touch, but its nature escapes our conception." (A. E. Garvie).

While they still disbelieved for joy ("ye curious yet real state of mind") he asked for something to eat, and when they gave him a piece of a broiled fish he ate before them.

The Leave-taking, Luke 24:50-53. Luke here omits all the other incidents of the forty days and records the ascension. With verse 50 compare Acts 1:3-11 and Eph. 4:10. They were on the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, facing Bethany. The apostles believed that the abode of the blessed was up in heaven, and therefore the account speaks of Jesus as being "carried up into heaven." "Jesus withdrew from the sphere of the seen and physical to the sphere of the unseen and spiritual. He did not pass up or down through the vast spaces of the skies. We are not to think of him as far away. He is an unseen, divine Presence superior to the limitations of time and space." (C. R. Erdman).

There was no longer any doubt in the disciples' minds about the Deity of Christ, and they worshipped him. Then they returned to Jerusalem with great joy, for they knew that they had not lost their Lord, that his promise was true, he would be with them always. And they were continually in the temple at all the stated hours of worship blessing God.

Barometer Of Temperament

Teeth are a barometer of your temperament. If they have a bluish hue, you're temperamental; maybe even inclined to be neurotic. Yellow teeth indicate a jolly disposition. And pearly white teeth—the kind every one wants for—are a sign of poor molars. . . . And speaking of teeth: America's sweet tooth has caused the per capita consumption of sugar in this country to nearly double since 1900.

A Dickens Story

Man Charged With Robbery "Recognized" Author As Receiver Of Stolen Goods

Everything to do with Charles Dickens, particularly at the present time, is interesting. Says a correspondent in Sunday Times, Mr. Dickens and Mr. Mark Lemon attended at Marylebone police-court on March 20, 1849; the latter for the purpose of preferring a charge against Cornelius Hearn for attempted robbery.

Mr. Lemon said in evidence: "I was walking with my friend Mr. Dickens along the Edgeware Road. I felt a hand in my coat pocket, and on turning round saw the prisoner draw his hand therefrom. I and Mr. Dickens ran after him, and he was shortly afterwards taken."

Mr. Dickens, at the station, said: "I thought I knew the prisoner and that I had seen him at the House of Correction." Prisoner said: "Now your worship, he must have been in 'quod' then himself or he could not have said he knew these two gentlemen well; they're no better than swell mob-men and get their living by buying stolen goods. (Laughter.) That one" (pointing to Mr. Dickens) "keeps a fence, and I recollect him at the prison when he was put in for six months, while I was only there for two."

The report goes on to state: "Both the literary gentlemen appeared to enjoy amazingly the honor which the prisoner had with such unblushing effrontery conferred upon them." The prisoner's age is given as 19 years.

Fortress In Caspian Sea

Sank Far Below Surface Years Ago In Earthquake

Soviet scientists in Moscow said they believed the Caspian Sea, the richest source of caviar, is drying up. In Baku harbor, deep water port, a fortress has appeared. The scientists say the battlements were constructed 800 years ago by Persian Shahs as an outpost in the centuries of struggles between Russian and Persian armies. Long ago it sank far below the surface of the sea in an earthquake but still the sturdy walls remain.

Underground canals extend more than 400 miles under the streets of Hamburg and Munich, Germany.

Fly Mathematics

Fly Can Become A Great, Great, Grandmother In Only A Few Weeks

A single female fly usually lays 600 to 1,000 eggs in her lifetime. Under favourable conditions these eggs hatch in ten or twelve days and there is an opportunity for seven or more generations in a season! In other words, this single fly can produce in only three generations, a few weeks apart, as many as one billion disease carrying menaces to health.

It is obvious that every effort should be put forth to destroy the first flies of the season. Each of the early flies killed means destruction of potential swarms.

As a menace to health, to say nothing of its disgusting bathosness, the fly is known to be a carrier of the germs of summer diarrhoea, typhoid and other serious diseases. And although sanitation efforts have been instituted to curb many sources of contagious diseases, there has been little success in eradicating the common house-fly.

It is a matter requiring personal effort to keep the home clear of flies. The elimination of possible breeding places such as uncovered garbage, refuse, manure, rotting leaves, decaying food, and windows and covering of all foods, are all necessary precautions. But, should flies enter the home, a few Wilson's Fly Pads, used regularly according to directions, will kill them all in a few hours.

Build Another Road

Highway From McMurray To Goldfields Is Projected

First link of a proposed winter road from McMurray, Alta., to Goldfields, Sask., on Lake Athabasca, a seven-mile highway will be constructed north from McMurray along the Athabasca river, Hon. W. A. Falwell, Alberta minister of public works, announced.

Docks would be built at the end of the seven-mile stretch, being built to avoid the necessity of handling freight by portage past rapids in the river at low water periods.

"I am still determined to get a road through to serve the Goldfields area as soon as possible," Mr. Falwell said. He added such a road was essential to the mining development of the north for which Edmonton is the natural gateway.

"Daddy!" exclaimed the little boy. "One more question, then," sighed the tired father. "Only one."

"How far is it," inquired the tot, "between to and fro?"

The letter "e" is used more than any other in the English language.

Little Helps For This Week

Father, if Thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless, not my will, but Thine be done. Luke 22:42.

Just as Thou wilt is all that I would will. Give me but this, the heart to be content. And my will is thwarted, to lie still. Waiting till puzzle and pain pain are spent. And the sweet thing made plain which Thou Lord meant.

Let your will be one with His will, and be glad to be disposed of by Him. He will order all things for you. What can cross your will when it is one with His, on which all creation hangs and around which all things revolve? Keep your hearts clear of evil thoughts, for as they estrange the will from His will they will cloud the soul and hide Him from us. Whatever sets us in opposition to Him makes our will an intolerable torment. So long as we will one thing and He another we go on piercing ourselves through and through with a perpetual wound, and His will moves on in sanctity and majesty crushing ours into the dust.

"That's kind of a crude description, but it'll have to do. Grab that hunk of iron you see him. Let the rest of us know. We don't want to stir up too much fuss. But we want—that cash!" he ended with sharp emphasis on each word.

They nodded, jerking their hats lower, hunching cartridge belts, fixing a strap over here and there.

"Suppose we can't find him. What then?"

Link's eyes became brownish-grey pinpoints. "We'll find him."

"Yuh mean we're to raid the hull town if necessary?"

Fleming turned his horse. "I'm going to ride down Main Street as if everything was all right, keeping my eyes peeled. Shootin'll be a signal he's found, of course. Lavery, you and Shaw go around the other side and do like Waco and the boys are goin' to. It's a crazy idea, maybe," he confessed. "But I aim to find that money if I'm in Rawhide—and we've got reason to think it is!"

CHAPTER XVII.

The men scattered. Link built a cigarette, lipped and lighted it, then urged his mustang at a leisurely walk down the main thoroughfare of Rawhide, sweltering in the heat.

Few persons were visible on the sidewalks, merely a scattering of ranchers come to town for supplies and to visit the post office. Fly Link, one man hand, carrying the custom of the last seven months—"How's Fleming's Folly comin'?"

Another loud grunted audibly. "Don't really think yuh'll hold water there, do yuh, Link? Reckon yuh want that damn for a fort, to stand off creditors when they come a-gunnin'!"

The six-foot rider grinned—a little wryly, his keen eyes roving the street for a man in a checkered shirt. Also for Jackpot Mell. The gambler might step out of any door, round any building, for the show-down.

"Hey, Link!" Matt Benson called as if reading his very thoughts "Mell's lookin' for yuh!"

He took out his sixgun and examined it carefully, spinning the cylinder and testing the trigger spring. By no means a professional gunman like his opponent, he nonetheless had some experience defending himself. Link knew he was fast on the draw, but there was grave doubt in his mind whether he was fast enough when pitted against a professional killer like Mell.

He shrugged his shoulders. There was no way out of it. He would do his best, and the result must be left to fate.

Dismounting before Sam Pickett's store, he tied his mustang at the hitchrack, ducked underneath, and strode with jingling spurs across the board sidewalk. A number of customers were in the store, all known to him at least by sight. The holdup was not there.

Link beckoned Buckett aside. He spoke in a tone so low that the grey-haired groceryman leaned to catch it. "Seen a heavy-set chap in here with corduroys and a checkered shirt?"

Sam shook his head. "None. What's his name? Want him, Link?" He touched the butt of his gun and mentioned this. "I wish you wouldn't mention this. I'm not sure of his name but I want him, yes. Let me know if he comes in, will you?"

Puzzled, the storekeeper rubbed an eyebrow and nodded. "Sure."

Link turned away. Answering as briefly as possible the greetings of the customers, he sauntered out of the place. As he stepped over the threshold he paused for a sharp look up and down the street. It was necessary to keep a keen vigilance for Jackpot.

His errand repeated in Thomas's hardware store and the dingy Old-time Saloon was equally fruitless. In the latter place he discovered Lavery just ordering a drink. From the steady look in his rider's eyes Fleming knew the wanted man had not been started.

The next building in line was the Half Moon. He shifted his gun belt as slowly he approached the place. This was Mell's hangout.

As the door flapped behind him he gave a quick look around. Mell was not present. He stepped to the bar, ordered a drink, and made a more detailed survey. Five men were settling up a card game at a wall table. Two others stood near Link at the bar. Gus, the rotund servant, clasped a glass before him and filled it.

As he was sipping the liquid, someone touched his arm.

He turned slowly to find Buzz Hamilton, wearing a queer, harried look. "Link, yuh got that steer money? Here's a note that says yuh should turn our share over to me."

He produced a slip of paper and tendered it.

The message was brief and business-like, signed by Helen, requesting that he hand the Triple H share to Buzz. Fleming gave the paper back.

"I haven't the cash right now. Had it but I got robbed. Ssh! Don't spread it, Buzz—I trailed one of the hunkies to town," he whispered swiftly. "The other's lyin' out near Junction with a slug in his head."

The ex-con's heavy eyes, bleary with drink, gleamed in suspicion. "You can't stand me, Fleming?"

There was open hostility between them, but the manner of each man was subdued. "I'm not stalling, Buzz. It's God's truth. Why should I stall? You're due the money, and I ain't your share."

Just then Roper Kilgo entered from the rear. "Hy, Buzz, you got the cash? Then I'll tear up this transfer of yores. I ain't the guy to play cards for paper. I want hard cash!"

Fleming looked at Buzz. "What does he mean, 'transfer'?"

His hands closed until the knuckles shone white. "I've got to have that money before now, and it's up to you to get it to me. That note proves it. Bring me the cash before now," he insisted with keen anxiety.

"I've got to have it before now," he insisted with keen anxiety.

Link started to ask "What for?" but with a final insistent gesture young Hamilton made for the table at which Kilgo had seated himself.

"They been playin' cards, Buzz. Link, the bartender, whispered. "They play all night long."

A look of surprise made him lean across the bar. "Buzz, he give Kilgo some kind of baber. And he's drinkin'—plenty!"

Fleming chanced to catch Roper's eye and the rancher indicated that he should sit down. "Come on, have a drink," he invited with a lordly air, rolling a thick black cigar between his lips.

"Reckon not, thanks."

It was more than likely a crude attempt to trap him, of course, that suave invitation. Jackpot Mell was certain to enter sooner or later, but Link preferred the shooting, if there was one, to take place outdoors rather than in the Half Moon.

"Aw," Buzz sneered in reply to something Roper said, "he claims he ain't got the money right now. He's got to get a check cashed or something."

At any rate Hamilton had kept the secret. Link paid for his drink, preparing to leave. As he handed back change Gus whispered to him: "Watch yore step, Link. He's loomin' for yuh!"

"Thanks," Fleming strode out alone. Just then a two-seater buggy drew up to the hitchrack before Pieper's bank and he recognized Helen Hamilton alighting. She saw him at the same moment and beckoned.

"Is Buzz in there?" was her opening question as he approached reluctantly.

"Yeh."

She frowned and moistened her cherry-red lips, looking up at him. "Could you—that is, would you make him come out? Oh," she hurried on, "Buzz said he had an important matter to attend to in town. That was last night, just after Roper left—I went to bed, but this morning I discovered Buzz hadn't come back. I didn't find out till an hour ago, as I got up early and went to look at the dam. The men insist they must have their money today," she added.

As Link nodded she stared downward and with the toe of one shapely riding boot made little marks in the dust. "I know Buzz has been gambling. It's been in his blood. I've seen the longing in his face ever since he came home. Is he—drinking much?"

"Quite a bit."

Helen sighed. "Is Roper in there?"

"Yes. It might be hard to get Buzz out. They played poker all night. Where did he get the money, Helen?"

"He didn't have much. But, Link, I—I'm afraid. You see, I gave him power of attorney."

He started. "You did?"

"Yes. Roper said I should give Buzz more responsibility, that it would be the making of him. Why?"

The girl's wide eyes sought his, and when he did not answer at once she clutched his arm in apprehension.

"Link! What has he done?"

"Well," came reluctantly, "he signed over your ranch to Roper on some kind of temporary scheme. For cash to play with, I reckon—a loan. He's in a rush for the steer money before noon." He glanced at his watch. It's eleven now. Must be," he reflected, "Kilgo was foxy enough to tie Buzz up in some tricky agreement. Either he must pay back the money Roper loaned or, if he hasn't done it by noon, the Triple H changes hands!"

The girl's slender fingers went to her lips. "He couldn't!" she gasped, and turned to stare at the stolid front of the half moon.

"Yes, I reckon he could. It'd be legal, all right."

Waco Byrne was approaching, still some distance off. At sight of him Halting started from another direction, and Drew from a third. Helen touched Link's arm. "Well, you shipped the cattle, didn't you? Where's the money? We'll—we'll take up Roper's note."

"But why are you worried?" he questioned, delaying the truth as long as he dared. "If you and Roper are well, suppose Kilgo does get possession of your property?"

"If you and Roper are to be married. In this state a husband owns his wife's property anyhow."

He did not look at her as he spoke, and when he did lift his eyes, found her anxiety trebled. "But, Link," he whispered, "Roper boasted to Jackpot Mell that he didn't intend to marry me! That he was—it was in order to get the ranch. Sheriff Stephen rode past the spread this morning and told me."

"And now—now," she struggled, "he's going to get it by this agreement with Buzz! Oh, why do you stand there?" the girl cried angrily.

"Why don't you pay me the cattle money—and get Buzz out of this mess? It's ours, isn't it? We're entitled to it, aren't we? Why don't you give it to me?"

The Star Loop riders were almost in earshot, converging as they neared. Link swallowed hard, strove to meet her blazing eyes—but dropped his gaze to the road at his feet.

"Gosh, Helen, I would! Only I... I was held up. It's gone."

Peddler's Son Is Judge

Canadian Elevated To New York General Sessions Court

Jonah J. Goldstein, who journeyed to New York in his early youth from Rocks Corner, B.C., and became a city magistrate, holds a general sessions judgeship at $24,000 a year.

Mr. Goldstein, just turned 50, passed his boyhood on New York's lower east side.

"I like trying to put together again like a crossword puzzle those who have taken a false step," Mr. Goldstein said.

Mr. Goldstein was born at Rocks Corner, B.C. His father was a peddler. With his parents and two brothers and five sisters he came to New York when he was six years old to live in a tenement house.

A still-life painting of fruit and vegetables by Queen Victoria brought $8 ($39.50) at a sale in London. The canvas measured twelve by eighteen inches and was signed "Victoria, January, 1873."

Out in the kitchens of the world's greatest hotels a black cap on a chef indicates his outstanding excellence. Ordinarily they wear the familiar white caps.

Local News

Miss Ethel Wilson visited in Calgary during the week-end.

Mrs. Louis Hansen, of Estevan, is visiting Mrs. H. T. Halliwell.

Miss Margaret Gillies is visiting friends at Lethbridge for a few days.

Miss Vera Hepburn of Medicine Hat is the guest of Miss Muriel Jackson this week.

Mr. Wilfrid Goddard, Blairmore merchant, was visiting in town on Monday.

Mrs. Ed. Bernard and son, Fraser, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fraser for a few weeks.

Bank inspectors of the Canadian Bank of Commerce are inspecting the books of the local branch this week.

Hunter's Bakery has recently erected above their door a large colored advertising sign on which is boldly inscribed the firm's name.

Robert Lowe, employed at the International mine, suffered a serious injury to his right hand, while trying to sprag a mine car. The car ran over his hand, making it necessary to amputate the index finger, and badly bruising the other fingers.

Memorial services were held by the Rebekah and Oddfellows lodges on Sunday afternoon in the I.O.O.F. hall in memory of brothers and sisters of the lodges who have passed on. After the services the Oddfellows marched to the union cemetery where they placed flowers on the graves of departed members.

Excel Builders Supply Co. of office and warehouse building is assuming quite an imposing appearance, and provides ample space for the display of "everything for a building," to quote the slogan of the company. It is aimed to have the building ready for opening by Dominion Day, July 1.

Miss Marie Sharkey, of Calgary and swimming instructress at the Girl Guides camp at Rock Lake last year, left Wednesday for Montreal where she will compete in the Olympic trials for diving. Girl Guides throughout the Pass will follow her performances keenly and wish her every success.

McKeen Hunter came down from Calgary last week with W. Bell of the Grand Union, and returned on Friday afternoon. After nearly two years hospital treatment, for an injury to his shoulder arising from his work in the International mine, he is looking fine, and has added weight to such an extent that he surprised his acquaintances. He has regained partly the use of his arm, though still undergoing treatment which it is hoped will fully restore it to use.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ford, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Watkins, made an 1100-mile trip by motor last week, visiting Spokane, Coeur d'Alene, Helena, Montana and returning via Cardston and Lethbridge, completing a circle tour. Helena shows striking evidence of the earthquakes last year, some buildings of a public nature being damaged beyond repair, including two school buildings. On one the iron and steel fire escape was twisted into the shape of a wriggly worm. Mr. Ford states, while another brick building was irretrievably ruined by the centre portion collapsing. Comparing highways, the party found travel far more pleasant south of the International boundary on surfaced roads, than on this side.

Schools Staff Re-Engaged

Contracts for the 1936-37 school term were renewed at a recent meeting, all teachers being signed on with the exception of Miss Olga Hole, who is resigning at the end of June. In her place Miss Gwen Brown was appointed, commencing after the midsummer holidays.

Hillcrest Couple Honored On Silver Anniversary

Over 150 people sat down to a sumptuous repast at the K. P. hall Tuesday, June 9, to do honor to two respected citizens, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kyle, on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

The chairman of the evening, Mr. D. Davies, in a brief address eulogized the guests of honor. Rev. Mr. Woods, in a few well chosen words, presented Mrs. Kyle with a beautiful silver cake stand, and Mr. Kyle a silver cigarette case. Mr. and Mrs. Kyle both expressed their appreciation for the honor accorded them.

A touch of humor was added to the proceedings by a mock wedding, the minister being Mrs. Montegani; bridegroom, Mrs. McDade; bride, Mrs. Hamaluk, with little Hazel Rees carrying the train and the bride presenting the bouquet she carried to Mrs. Kyle.

A social evening followed, solists being Mrs. D. Davis, Mrs. B. Craig, Miss M. Morgan, Mr. B. Williams and Mr. Glyn Rees. A tap-dance was given by Miss B. Carter. The accompanists were Mr. T. Beynon and Mr. H. Rees. The evening finished with much merriment and old-time dances. Each guest received a piece of wedding cake before leaving.

Arrangements were capably handled by the following ladies: Mesdames D. Brown, J. Norton, F. Balkwill, F. Gates, D. Davies, J. McDade, A. Rees, M. Hamaluk, E. Montegani, R. Turner.

Fernie Trims Hillcrest 4-1

Hillcrest fans were treated to a fine display of baseball here Sunday when Fernie played the local juniors. The game was featured by a pitching duel between Seaman, junior hurler, and Stan on the mound for Fernie.

The score was tied one all up to the seventh inning, but Fernie managed to push over three runs in the last two innings to win the game.

The juniors produced a fine brand of ball against a senior and more experienced team and their performance points to them as a real threat to take provincial honors.
